

10 WAYS TO GROW BRICK AND MORTAR SALES VIA YOUR WEBSITE

Introduction

For brick and mortar auto parts stores, ecommerce is both a threat and opportunity.

80% of customers research products online, but 75% still prefer to buy in a store, according to Forrester. While consumers may search ecommerce sites first, the vast majority of auto parts purchase happen offline. In the tip sheet, learn how to position your website to turn online searches into in-store customers.

Step 1 - Capture Local Online Buyers

LOCALLY OPTIMIZED BRAND PAGES

1- Buyers Search for Brands Locally

2- Your Locally Optimized Brand Pages Appear in Search Results

3 – Buyers Search for Products on Your Website and Contact Your Store to Purchase

80% of customers research products online, but 75% still prefer to buy in a store, according to Forrester. Auto parts consumers are searching globally and buying locally.

The key to capturing these online buyers is showing up in local search results for brand searches. Building locally optimizing brand pages on your website is the key. Once on your website, visitors can search for products and then contact or visit your store to purchase.

MOBILE OPTIMIZED DESIGN

By the end of 2013, there will be more mobile devices on Earth than people. (Source: Cisco, 2013)

As smartphone and tablet adoption rapidly increases, so does the importance of mobile-friendly websites. Mobile optimized sites (responsive design) is structured for optimal viewing, no matter which mobile or tablet device is being used.

Make sure your site is mobile optimized to capture and engage potential customers.

4

SOCIAL MEDIA

More and more of your customers are using social media to stay informed, stay connected and stay up-to-date on brands, offers, sales and more.

Use social media to:

- Share and promote new products, with links to your website
- Promote exclusive deals and offers
- Showcase your brick and mortar services and specialties
- Share store and employee recommendations

Step 2 – Engage and Build Value with Buyers

5

PRODUCT SEARCH

The biggest reason potential buyers leave your site is because they can't find the what they are looking for. Make sure products on your website can be found quickly and easily.

Your intuitive product lookup should include the following features:

- Year-Make-Model, Vehicle Search
- Dynamic Category Search
- Brand Look-up
- Keyword & Part # Search
- Product Look-up Page

To convert local web traffic into local foot traffic you need to provide quality content about your local services and store, not just what you're actually selling.

On your About Us page, services pages, and blog, you'll want to talk about your retail store in the context of your services and where you operate. You should also develop educational information to help you customers make complex purchases. You can mention local events, installation services, local customers — even talk about your specific store's location in some depth. You will want to add content on an ongoing basis that is fresh, engaging and helps build trust and community.

Step 3 – Drive Motivated Buyers to Your Store

DISCOUNTS & SPECIALS

One of the easiest ways to generate in-store visits from the web is to create printable coupons to be redeemed at point of sale.

The primary benefit to printable coupons is that they incentivize the customer to bring something with them to the store that can be easily tracked and associated to your web site without the sales clerks needed to ask any questions and track responses.

List coupon on your website to promote your local store. But careful not to overuse coupons and reset consumer expectations. Once customers begin to expect coupon deals or special offers with every purchase, they may start delaying purchases.

PROMOTE YOUR LOCAL STORE

Use your banners on your home page to promote your local store.

Rotating banners on your site should immediately capture the attention of your visitors and should promote your specialty brands and products as well as promote your local store. Connect your banner to your Contact Us page.

11

BONUS: ANALYTICS

The Internet and eCommerce is not killing the retail store. Far from being the death of brick and mortar, the internet is providing a new way for retail store to reach new customers as well as analytics for making smart online and retail decisions.

Analyze data on your website to make decisions regarding popular brands and products, on what to promote and stock. Split test offers on your website that you can transfer to your store. Learn where and when to open more physical locations, what to stock, and how much square footage to give to a particular market.

You need a strong online presence to drive in-store sales. Let us show you how.
